I think you'll agree that the month of November flew by. Election Day, the NJEA Convention, Veterans Day, American Education Week and Thanksgiving created memorable events and activities that can't be forgotten.

Although the result of the gubernatorial election was very disappointing on November 5, 2013, New Jersey voters chose to elect a strong, pro-public education legislature because our public schools are a top priority. NJEA's annual convention on November 7-8, 2013 drew record numbers with capacity crowd workshops, a busy exhibition hall and plenty of questions about teacher evaluations, new standards and testing for students. On November 11, 2013, our schools and communities remembered our veterans who willingly served and continue to serve our country. NEA's annual American Education Week celebration during November 18-22, 2013 showcased the accomplishments of all public schools nationwide. Our Association received two proclamations – from the Board of Education and from the Mayor and Town Council in observance of this weeklong celebration. Finally, the Thanksgiving holidays on November 28-31, 2013 offered us the opportunity to spend well deserved time with families and friends during this bountiful season.

With the holiday festivities already underway, the Association always prepares a list of wishes. This year the Association wishes:

SAVE THE DATES

January 27th
MCEA XYZ's of Retirement

January 31st
NJEA ESP Conference

March 21st
NJEA Winter Leadership Conference

- That the Governor and Legislature work collaboratively with the NJEA to ensure a quality education for all children in our state;
- That Legislators continue to examine the benefits and costs of the new Common Core Standards and the on-line testing component of PARCC (Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers) before statewide implementation;
- That the Commissioner of Education and the Department of Education remember the focus of the new teacher evaluation system – one that reflects the professionalism of educators and contributes to the learning outcomes for students;
- That our administration and our teaching staff work together to face the challenges of this first year of the new teacher evaluation plan;
- That all education stakeholders fully understand that the education reform movement is really a corporate reform movement in an attempt to privatize public education;
- That the Board of Education will be successful in its on-going search for a new school superintendent;
- That the services of our Education Support Professionals be respected and viewed as vital in achieving excellence in our public schools;
- That the work related stress for many of our members be reduced;
- That our members who work so diligently to ensure the excellence of our district always remember the importance of taking time for themselves and their families; and finally,
- That each member enjoys a New Year filled with health, happiness and wishes come true.

Retirement Planning For NJEA Members

Did you know that as an NJEA member you are entitled to a free half-hour pension consultation at our local UniServ office?

Retirement can be a confusing time. With over 50 topics pertaining to retirement, the right decisions need to be made. Questions about monthly pension benefits, health benefits, purchasing service credit are just some of the questions that can be answered by qualified NJEA pension consultants. Trained in all aspects of retirement, they are well equipped to walk you through the process.

With your contractual salary for the highest four years, a copy of your annual pension statement and the birthdates of you and your beneficiary(ies) in hand, your pension consultation will begin. An average pension consultation starts with an estimate of what your monthly pension will be. Consultants will also give you estimates for a multitude of situations ensuring you have the best advice to make informed decisions. The pension consultant will guide you step-by-step through the NJEA Retiree Checklist. You will keep the checklist to reference information and whatever notes the pension consultant has made.

If during the consultation you decide that your retirement will occur within four to six months, the Application for Retirement Allowance will be reviewed with you. As per the September 2012 EBEA Newsletter article "Division of Pensions and Benefits Implements Changes," effective October 1, 2012 an eligible member who wishes to apply for retirement must use the online retirement application accessible through a personal account with the Member Benefits Online System (MBOS).

The Division of Pensions and Benefits states that this is a fast, secure, efficient method to apply for retirement.

As soon as you are considering retirement call our UniServ Office –Region 12 at (609) 860-0771 to schedule a pension consultation. The office is conveniently located at 104 Interchange Plaza in Monroe Township, NJ 08831.

Your retirement should be an enjoyable transition, and making an appointment with an NJEA pension consultant is the first step!

The Association has encouraged active PERS and TPAF members to register for MBOS since the inception of this on-line system in 2008.

Registration instructions for the first time user is a two step process.

Wall of Honor

The Wall of Honor in the Board of Education meeting room recognizes individuals who have made a significant and/or extraordinary contribution to the East Brunswick Public Schools. Individuals selected for the Wall of Honor are chosen by the Recognition Committee, composed of representatives from the EBEA, the EBPSA, the Board of Education, and chaired by the Director of Human Resources.

The following guidelines have been provided for you in order to nominate individuals for the Wall of Honor:

- The eligibility time period for retired or deceased employees and Board members begins one and one half years following the June 30th of the retirement year and ends three and one half years later.
- Individuals nominated should have made a significant and/or extraordinary contribution to the East Brunswick Public Schools.
- The Recognition Committee will meet to review all recommendations and utilize the established selection procedure.
- Nominations should be well documented and lengthy enough to give the Recognition Committee a well-rounded view of the individual being nominated.
- All nominations will be kept confidential by the Recognition Committee. The list of those individuals who are eligible this period will soon be provided by the Human Resources Department. Nominations will then be due in Human Resources sometime in early January. Retirees interested in nominating individuals for the Wall of Honor are encouraged to call the EBEA office at (732) 390-6600 for the list of eligible candidates. Inquiries can also be directed to The Human Resources Department at (732) 613-6710.
